

What are the 5 learning theories?

Behaviorism

Learning occurs as a response to external stimulus.

Cognitivism

Learning is an internal thought process that combines internal and external factors.

Constructivism

Learning is a process of connecting prior experience to new information.

Humanism

Learning occurs when the needs of individual learners are met.

Connectivism

In the digital age, learning occurs as students actively connect information from a number of sources.

Explore University of Phoenix's more than 100 online programs at phoenix.edu

 phoenix.edu/blog

 UniversityofPhoenix

 UniversityofPhoenix

 UniversityofPhoenix

 uopx

 uopx

 UOPX

 University of Phoenix[®]
CAREER WITH CONFIDENCE[™]